CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

Rockland, June 8, 1908.
I, the undersigned, being the publisher of the above named paper, do hereby certify that the circulation of the same for the week ending June 6, 1908, was printed a total of 4,169 copies.
Before me:
J. W. Crocker
Notary Public

FOR CONGRESSMAN,
HON. JOHN P. SWASEY
OF CANTON

The Opinion lashed itself into a quite needless heat over this paper's mild suggestion that it would like to see an official permanently installed in the work of beautifying our city. Our gentle contemporary considers this suggestion worthy of its heaviest and most smothering broadsides of contempt, perceiving in it the sinister byways that lead to "graft." No "boss beautifier," as the Opinion jauntily puts it, is needed. Possibly not—we were not arguing for it, merely stating a view that we really believe, now that the Opinion has called attention to it so forcibly, has in it some suggestions of good sense. We won't go the length of insisting that the official should be a "boss decorator" alone, but he might be a man practical in affairs of sidewalk and street building, to which accomplishments could be added some elements of refinement that would admit of joining beauty to practicalness, with little or no extra cost. Not always, we venture to believe, will Rockland be satisfied to continue in its past and present manner of making city improvements under the direction of untrained men.

Postmaster General Meyer announces that an agreement has been reached with the British government providing for a letter postage of two cents an ounce between the United States and Great Britain and Ireland, to become operative Oct. 1, 1908. This drop from the long-established rate of five cents will doubtless inspire a great increase in transatlantic correspondence. Next thing we want to see is one-cent postage in this country.

In a recent address in Parliament Lord Avebury said: "I am sure that if I knew how cruel the traffic is, I would never wear the plumes of birds, for after all they do not look nice in them." If one of these reasons fails, the other is certain to get in its work.

Deut. Peary seems so confident of turning up at the north pole on his approaching trip, that already he is turning his thoughts to discovering the south pole also. Peary seems to be bound to carry things to extremes.

The Courier-Gazette is desired to help find Capt. Peter Carr, formerly of the schooner M. H. Reed. Our information is that relatives of his have lately died in Portland, Oregon, leaving him property.

The country has settled in its mind that Taft is to be the nominee, and if nominee then the next President. And the country appears to be pretty content with the conclusion.

With so large a proportion of the delegates already committed, Mr. Bryan may justly feel his nomination assured. It is the election that will bother him.

Only one week more of suspense. Then we shall know it is Taft sure enough.

KNOX CAN BE SAVED.

Well Known Camden Man Believes the County Can Be Redeemed by the Republican Voters.

Can the Republicans win in Knox county? Then there comes the "it." They surely cannot win by trying to straddle, when it comes to putting up candidates for sheriff and county attorney. In Maine the rural element belongs with the Democratic party. Let it alone and stay there, until it is dead; or until it is "born again" with a new life, and new principles.

Let the law-abiding citizens—men who have faith in Maine because it has led this country in producing the ablest men of character the world has ever seen—let such men stand together and look over Knox county to see if they can find men of character and strength, who will not take bribes from rascals, or do anything to nullify the best laws a state was ever blessed with, with the avowed purpose of carrying favor for the caucus influence of rascals and their allies. If not in the cities, such men ought to be found in the outlying towns of the county, where the saloon influence has not been catered to for the votes it could bring in.

Men should be put up for office too who have sympathy for the under dog in the fight. The man who believes in prohibition by the liquor traffic, and enforced prohibition too, is the best friend every poor, misguided drinking man, or his more unfortunate family has. His daily prayer by his life will be: "God help the poor, the rich can take care of themselves."

Working men like to be fed on something better than split peas and prunes. The rascals want the best cut of the steak, and with the help of our county officers in Knox county he gets it, with trolley rides thrown in.

A county that has produced such little men of character and strength as Littlefield and Cobb ought this year to stir itself to action and win out, by putting up for every office in the county men of character and strength, whose sympathy on every question is with the under dog in the fight.

Wilder W. Perry, Camden, Me., June 5, 1908.

POLITICAL POINTS

Two more Knox county caucuses have been called. St. George's which takes place tomorrow night and Hope's which takes place Saturday.

Yesterday's Kennebec Journal gave the standing of the gubernatorial caucuses as follows: Fernald 413, Haines 167, Boothby 39, unstructured 145. The Lewiston Sun's figures were: Fernald 458, Haines 185, Boothby 38, and unstructured 118. The Waterville Sentinel credited Fernald with 507 votes. It is understood that the Fernald leaders claim even more.

sum due on subscriptions would cover the deficit many times over. It was found that there was $160 available for church repairs. H. N. McDougall, Mrs.
W. H. Glover, Mrs. W. H. Kittredge,
George L. St. Clair and Mrs. C. M.
Walker were appointed a committee to confer with the board to make the needed repairs within. C. M. Walker,

E. B. Hastings, H. N. McDougall and David Talbot were elected trustees.This is to inform my customers that that it will be supplied at my house comes from Camden tonight to confer

the degrees for Pleasant Valley Grange.
This ought to result in a large attendance at tonight's meeting.The warm wave sent a large crowd to Crescent Beach Sunday. The arrival of 88 excursionists from Belfast added to the enjoyment of the occasion. The Crescent Beach House was well patronized, and many of the cottages were occupied.The young lady members of the class

lege last week. The college closed Fri-successful year.A junk-dealer wagon broke down in front of the Thomas fish market late Saturday afternoon. A new set of forward wheels was secured at Charles E.

Bicknell's, under whose direction supplemented by the free advice of leaven-

The entertainment is under the auspices of the social department of the Epworth League of which Mrs. Arthur ment has not been given in the city for some time.In the distribution of tickets for Thursday night's graduation exercises Supt. Moulton has decided to follow the custom of recent years. The reserved seat tickets have been divided among the members of the class and the officers and a limited number of standing room tickets will be issued at the opera house Thursday, commencing at 9 a. m. No persons are to be admitted to the hall without ticket.L. M. Philbrook, W. G. Ames, Albert M. Ripley and A. M. Ripley, 3 Matineux fishermen, made complaint the latter part of the week that articles to the value of about $200 had been stolen from their boats. Suspicion fell upon the Rockland parties who were there at the time the larceny was committed. Special Officer Kallach investigated the matter with his usual success, obtaining a confession to the deed from a few of the party who were there, and hoping to effect a settlement without the necessity of court proceedings. He said he alone had taken the articles while under the influence of liquor. Afterward, in his sober senses, he repented but lacking the money to restore the stolen articles he threw them overboard. The settlement will involve the payment of quite a large sum, but the offender is only too glad to avoid publicity and criminal proceedings.John Peters, the original rug man, is at Fuller-Cobb Co.'s on his annual trip.

Mr. Peters is well and favorably known in this city as he has been coming here for many years. He is a buyer and collector of 20 years' experience and is well known in the rug market of the East. You can get ordinary rugs at any time but not from Mr. Peters as he carries oriental masterpieces, such as you have never seen before and at prices that are very reasonable. Mr. Peters has with him on this trip 700 beautiful specimens of rugs and he would like to have you call and see them even if you do not care to buy. Rugs can be bought cheaply now for a long time past owing to financial conditions and to the fact that Mr. Peters has another trip planned to the Orient. Mr. Peters will be here for two weeks and can be seen at Fuller-Cobb Co.'s carpet department.The Junior banquet in the Y. M. C. A. rooms Friday evening was attended by 35 boys and some few special guests, among whom were President R. W.
Bickford and W. O. Fuller, Jr. The former gave the boys some excellent advice and commended them for the good work they were doing in the association. Mr. Fuller gave some incidents of his trip to England, which were listened to with keen interest. Three of the boys presented fine papers. Richard Fuller outlined something interesting and profitable in the way of summer sports; John Perry held close attention while he took the guests on a trip to Italy; Israel Snow had a practical paper telling of some of the ways in which boys can help the association and what the association is doing for the boys. Secretary Brunberg acted as toastmaster in his most felicitous style.
The supper was excellently served by Mrs. George W. Smith, Mrs. Charles A.
Rose, Mrs. L. E. Moulton and Mrs. F.
C. Stewart.Sixteen young ladies in pretty costumes will give two beautiful and ining June 15. They have been rehearsing for the event for several weeks past and intend to be perfect in their respective parts. Miss George McLaugh-who is also an expert pen artist.W. A. McLain and family and I. C.

through Knox and Waldo counties Sunday. This is believed to be the longest one-day pleasure jaunt that has been made by Knox county autos this season. The long trip was marred by only one accident, of a minor nature, to the Gay car.B. H. Wetherbee of Philadelphia was a caller at The Courier-Gazette office yesterday. He is a son of Alden Weth-stroke which has deprived him of the use of one of his arms. Mr. Wether-that many Rockland friends trust may be speedy and permanent.On Bacchalaureate Sunday, the churches other than the one where the special services are held, look for smaller congregations than usual. Last Sunday, however, proved to be an exception at the First Baptist church. The perfect June weather brought out a large number of people, and the audience was nearly if not quite up to the normal attendance. The pastor, Rev. William J. Day, preached an interesting and profitable sermon from Gal. 6:17.

"Henceforth let no man trouble me for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." At the evening service the second sermon in the series of the Book of Esther was given, the special subject being, "Esther the New Queen."The large congregation was evidence of the interest with which these discourses are being followed. A feature of the service was a solo by Otto Hatch before the sermon. This singer has a sweet voice and a distinct enunciation which make his renderings most acceptable.Remember that the Art & Wall Paper

Mrs. S. A. Larrabee, of 56 Camden street, Rockland, Me., says: "What I said in our Rockland papers in 1898 recommending Doan's Kidney Pills was true in every particular and the benefits I described then have proven permanent. I can recommend them not from my own experience but from the knowledge of many other cases in which Doan's Kidney Pills have been used upon my recommendation. Many have asked me about my case and to everyone suffering from backache or any form of kidney trouble, I have always recommended this remedy and have been gratified to find it never failed."

Town Gains Fame From Its Cakes. The town of Eccles, near Manchester, England, has gained considerable fame from the fact that it is the home of a currant cake that is now known the world over by the name of Eccles cake. It is made in the following manner:

Rub into one pound of flour a quarter of a pound of lard, one teaspoonful of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Make into a paste with ice-cold water. Then roll out thin and spread little bits of butter over, and fold over and roll out again and spread butter over once more, and roll and then fold up. Take a pound of currants; wash and dry them. Then add a teaspoonful of vanilla; roll out a piece of paste about the size of a large saucer, put in the center two tablespoonfuls of currants, a piece of butter about the size of a small nut and a tablespoonful of sugar. Wet the edges of the paste and gather them together, turn over on the board and roll to a round cake. Bake in a hot oven twenty minutes.

PLANT YACHT FINEST AFLOAT

Equipment and Decoration of the Yolantha Carried Out on a Scale of Royal Magnificence.

Commodore Morton F. Plant's new 3,000 ton yacht, the Yolantha, has received her finishing touches in the Fifth of Fourth and after Cowes week will sail for New York, from which point the owner with a party of friends will start on a tour around the world.

The Yolantha carries a crew of eighty men, including an expert operator of the Marconi company. It has an electric laundry and every modern convenience found in the most costly mansions and hotels. The accommodations for guests are such that each has a complete suite of rooms, including a sleeping room, sitting room and bath.

Throughout the vessel the ventilating equipment is especially complete. Below and above deck all the fresh air that could possibly be required is supplied by twenty-two electrically driven Sirocco fans. These are built on the principle of a steam turbine, and, although the largest of the fans is only twenty inches in diameter, they produce an enormous output of air.

In selecting this equipment the commodore of the New York Yacht club has followed the example of the builders of nearly all the new ships of transatlantic companies, on which turbine fans are now used almost to the exclusion of every other type.

Not only is the Yolantha equipped for comfort; it is also luxuriously furnished. Mr. Plant has just purchased three porcelain panels at a cost of $25,000 to give a "finishing touch" to the decoration of the principal saloon. On their trip around the world Mr. Plant's guests will enjoy as many luxuries as do travelers on the newest transatlantic liners, if not more.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

DEAD TRUST USED TO PREVENT U. S. ACTION AGAINST VENEZUELA.

Boggy Resurrected by Asphalt Promoter to Forestall Move on Behalf of Claimants Against President Castro's Government.

Little or nothing had been heard about the asphalt trust since its collapse in 1901 until the recent recrudescence of the Venezuelan controversy. Then it was suddenly discovered that the trust was at its devilish work again. This time it was trying to enbroil the United States in war with President Castro—or so said his representatives here—and in horrified tones his press agents asked, "Shall the United States go to war for a trust?"

Perish the thought! Especially should the nation avoid going to war for a dead trust, one that seven years ago was laid in the tomb bearing the inscription: "National Asphalt Company; born 1890—died 1901. Come, but not forgotten by the stockholders."

It is one of fate's choicest ironies that the unsavory reputation of the National Asphalt trust has lately been dragged forth and used as a boggy to scare off action on behalf of the American claimants against Venezuela, one of these claimants being the New York and Bermudez company, a subsidiary concern of the General Asphalt company that survived the bursting of the asphalt bubble in 1901.

For the resurrectionist is no other than Amel L. Barber, promoter of the National Asphalt company and since its failure the associate of President Castro in the asphalt business.

In all the annals of high finance there is no spectacle to equal that of a parent holding up the dissolute life of a bankrupt offspring as an argument to show that he (the said parent) should remain in possession of an important part of the deceased bankrupt's estate.

With the horrible example of the Asphalt Company of America and the National Asphalt company before them the reorganizers who took hold of the Barber wrecks gave up the trust idea. They reduced the capitalization from $58,000,000 to $31,000,000, of which only $24,000,000 have been issued, ended the era of collusive bidding and closed specifications for municipal contracts and have succeeded in living a life free from scandal.

But still of $1,300,000 that the father of the old asphalt trust continue to be visited on a company and a management who are in no way responsible for these sins. The General Asphalt company, still referred to as the trust, is not only a legatee of the odium of the old regime, but the victim of the deal whereby its Venezuela property is held in the possession of the Castro-Barber combination awaiting President Castro's pleasure in referring the Bermudez and other claims to arbitration.

TEXTILE MILL OUTPUT IS OVER A BILLION A YEAR.

Big Increase Coming From Addition of Linn Making to American Fiber and Fabric Production.

When does not figure at all in the valuation of $1,300,000,000 that the government places upon the output of the textile mills of the United States—cotton, wool, silk and other fiber goods, including the product of finishing and dyeing mills. Linn appears only in the list of imports at a valuation of about $22,000,000.

It is a striking fact that the value of the annual output of the American textile mills amounts to very nearly as much as the total capital invested in this industry, which is estimated at $1,343,524,000. The value of the textile output of the United States is exceeded only by the value of food products and iron and steel manufactures.

The annual dividends of textile mills exceed $80,000,000 a year, or $7,000,000 a month, not a dollar of which has been until now earned from the manufacture of linen from American flax.

The next figures for textile production, however, will include the output of the Oxford linen mills just established in Massachusetts. These are the pioneer mills in the United States, employing a new process of American invention which overcomes the obstacles heretofore presented to the making of American linens in competition with the cheaper labor of Russia, Belgium, Ireland and other foreign countries.

In addition to fiber and fabrics the Oxford mills make a linen machinery "waste" and "oxolin" for surgical purposes. The latter product is one for which the medical profession has long been looking as a substitute for surgical cottons now in general use.

Linen is preferred for the reason that it is more highly absorbent and non-irritating.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. It is sold by W. H. Kittredge.

OUR WEEKLY NEW YORK LETTER.

Charming Modes Killed by Exaggeration—The Tunic Suitable Only for Long Skirts—Parasols of all Degrees of Elaboration—Silks Showing Contrast of Color or Material.

BY MONS. GENE DE PONTAC.

As the Paris season progresses the Directoire style becomes more and more pronounced—scent skirts, short-waisted coats with long tails in the back, collar standing up straight and stiff, huge revers and wide cuffs—ideas that will probably reach us in the fall—let us hope in less exaggerated form. It is a great pity that women will never learn to exercise moderation in the use of really beautiful modes. The Directoire costume is exceedingly picturesque, and the long, graceful lines of the clinging gowns are charming when properly worn; but in the extreme models they are ridiculous and not a little vulgar. So with the new figure—the "hipless" craze goes on till the ultra woman wears a harness that almost prevents locomotion and that moulds her out of semblance to anything human.

The tunic skirt is suitable only for house-gowns, for trailing lengths are absolutely necessary to counteract the tendency the tunic has of cutting off the height. There is a great variety in the shape in which the tunic is cut—it may be square, round or pointed. A favorite finish is a plain hem with handsome tassels weighting the points, but there are limitless possibilities of embroidery, insertions, appliques, fringe and all the new bordered materials, though the severely plain lines of the untrimmied fold are after all the very best.

Soutache embroidery appears on every available surface, and the parasol of either silk, net or lingerie is no exception. Cotton, linen or silk embroidery is combined with the braiding or lace medallions are woven into it. A deep border of net is sometimes used on a silk or linen parasol cover, the net covered thickly with embroidery in soutache which matches the tone of the cover. The reign of pongee calls for parasols of like material, and many such are shown, both embroidered and with woven Persian borders. In silk, there are innumerable checks, stripes, blurred flower designs, dots and sprays. Some of the French parasols in black-and-white check are lined with delicate rose-color, which makes an eminently becoming frame for the face. With afternoon gowns the parasol is of chiffon, of lace—the heavy Spanish is the most stunning—or of silk lavishly adorned with lace among Dresden embroideries. For the lingerie gown the parasol is made of lawn or linen, and colored batiste parasols, finished simply with tucks, and with enamel handles of the same shade, are charming when they match in tint the embroideries of the gown. Cretonne parasols are gay little affairs for carrying with morning gowns. The handles are wood, very plain of course, and the usual trimming is heavy cotton fringe.

While the strictly tailor-made suit of coat and skirt to match is as good form as ever it was and fills some occasions that nothing else ever can—still, the very last word calls for a contrast in coat and skirt, either of color or of material or of both. We have mentioned before the coats of linen to be worn with skirts of cotton net; now it is coats of braided net and skirts of linen. Velveteen gowns in the pale pastel tones with pongee or taffeta coats en suit are very smart—particularly if the coat be made of white pongee, with trimmings and waistcoat of Irish lace or heavily embroidered in soutache. White serge or mohair skirts will be worn with colored coats of the same material, and the French models show these coats in hues—suitable only, of course, for country wear. The latest slip for wear under elaborate lingerie gowns is made of satin in a deep, warm shade—violet, cerise or emerald green.

MERRY WIDOW MUST GO

Such Is New York's Fashion Decree—
Charlotte Corday the Successor.

Word comes from New York that the Merry Widow is on the point of disappearing her hat. She has grown weary of the huge wheel of straw, in which her lovely head is the hub, and is going to substitute a less rigid and uncompromising headgear. In other words, the female members of the Merry Widow company, from which the hat took its name, have voted unanimously to drop it and wear instead a so-called Charlotte Corday hat.

This decision, says the Boston Globe, was reached not imprudently but liberally, and after the big hat had begun to lose its hold on feminine favor. The opera singers, in voting for the change, were following fashion, not leading it.

For weeks now the exaggerated proportions of the Merry Widow hat have been palling upon the popular taste. Wholesale milliners found themselves loaded up with the thing and were unable to dispose of it. So they sent it back to the manufacturers to have the brim cut down, reducing it to the size of the ordinary sailor hat.

For the Merry Widow hat had become almost a national calamity. It had come insidiously, like the brown-tail moth. At first it was only an ordinary sailor hat. Then the brim began to grow, until it overshadowed completely the figure beneath it.

The brim got so large that it was impossible for the wearer to enter a car door without walking squarely in the center, or without tilting her head on one side. It actually stopped trains, and the features of passengers became the butt of innumerable newspaper jokes and then the subject of pulp denunciations. Like most evils, it cured itself.

The women got tired of the enormous expanse of straw, even though it offered a most inviting field for the display of flowers and other adornment. In one of the big department stores of Boston a few weeks ago a Merry Widow hat, measuring 36 inches in diameter was sold to a customer, who had it trimmed and took it home in great glee. She wore it twice and then had it cut down to normal size.

There is no one clearly defined Charlotte Corday style of hat. There is only a general Charlotte Corday effect. No one knows exactly what kind of hat that lovely and unfortunate girl wore either before or after she plunged the dagger into the heart of Marat.

In the Corcoran art gallery at Washington is Muller's painting of Charlotte Corday, showing her standing behind the bars after her arrest. On the back of her head is a large, stiff, horizontal brim, with a wide drooping brim. That drop in the brim is called the Charlotte Corday effect.

The Charlotte Corday hat may have either a tam-shantier or a bell-shaped crown. The brim may be wide or narrow. The hat may be made of lace or of straw. It may be adorned with flowers or ribbons. It may or it may not be furnished with a plume. But it must have the drooping brim.

The special advantage of the Charlotte Corday, which are said to be much in vogue in Paris, is that they are becoming to many more faces than the Merry Widow. The wide stiff horizontal brim fits comparatively few styles of beauty, while some form of the Charlotte Corday will be certain to adorn almost any woman.

WALDO COUNTY NEWS.

Belfast June 2nd, 1908.

The funeral of Miss Elsa Frances Hall, who died on Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. W. Burdin, on Salmon street, took place on Tuesday afternoon Rev. D. H. MacQuarrie officiating. The service was attended by many friends and the funeral offerings were pretty. The deceased was born in Rockland the daughter of John and Syrena Hall and was aged sixty-one years Nov. 14. She was a member of the Berkeley Street Baptist church in Boston and for the past twelve years has resided with her sister in this city. Besides Mrs. Burdin, she leaves a sister, Mrs. Clara Crosby, of Somerville, Mass, and a brother, Edward Hall of Tenants Harbor. The deceased passed away from kidney trouble and was confined to her bed but a few days. The remains, following the funeral of Tuesday were taken to Rockland by boat where interment was made in the family lot.

The message announcing the death of Rev. George E. Tufts, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church in this city, at Wolfville, N. S., where he was the guest of his brother, has caused general sadness. During the past few years Mr. Tufts has been connected with the church at Wolfville but he frequently visited in this city.

Very little credence has been given the story of the death of Robert Morey, which has been going the rounds of papers in Norfolk, Va., where he was in the naval hospital. While the story may be true that a Belfast girl received a letter "the other day" stating that Morey had died in Norfolk on February 26, it would not be the custom of the commandant in charge to wait so long before notifying Morey's relatives or his young lady in this city. There is no one clearly defined Charlotte Corday style of hat. There is only a general Charlotte Corday effect. No one knows exactly what kind of hat that lovely and unfortunate girl wore either before or after she plunged the dagger into the heart of Marat.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Johnson have been spending some days in Knox fishing for trout. Mr. Johnson captured five good specimens and had it not been for the swollen brooks he might have brought home a larger string.

HIBERNATION.

How and Why Some Animals Exist All Winter Without Food.

The philosophy of nature of hibernation and why and how it is that the hibernating creatures can go so long without food are interesting studies.

In the first place, the creature in order to enable it to sustain life through the long winter during which it hibernates is endowed with the capacity of accumulating within its body a large quantity of fat. This fat is to the animal what a fire, and until the whole of it has been consumed the tissue of the body proper remains untouched. It has been ascertained that animals can endure the waste of tissue until it amounts to 40 per cent of their normal weight. Should the weight be reduced beyond that point the result is death. But nature comes to the rescue of the hibernating creatures in another way. When the hibernation begins, respiration and digestion almost cease (in some cases they cease absolutely), and the circulation is only just active enough to sustain life. As a consequence of this the waste and the tissue due to the hibernation and the creature is enabled to pull through.—New York American.

Horses and Music.

Regimental horses have been the subjects of musical tests, and nearly all enjoyed the experience, only a very small percentage of the animals maintaining indifference to sweet harmonies, while equally few showed active dislike. The great majority were soothed, inspired or excited by music. Most of the horses, like the war chargers one may suppose them to be, enjoyed the bugle above any other instrument and neighed gallantly when it was sounded, but thoughtful and colts generally were found to prefer the shrill treble of the fife, which roused them to great and sometimes unmanageable enthusiasm. This was the more significant because the fife was an unfamiliar instrument to them, not being generally used, as is the bugle in the French army.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

The Observations of a Man With a Sensitive Ear.

"Of course you have heard," said the man with a sensitive ear, "a laugh that jarred. I don't mean," he continued, "so much a laugh at an inopportune time. I imagine you have heard such laughter as a laugh of the quality of which is unpleasant. There is something contagious in laughter of the right kind, even though you may be the object of it. It bubbles from the well of good humor. There is no hidden thought, or 'arriere pensee,' as the French say, behind it. It is the essence of frankness; it is spontaneous and whole-souled, and it cleanses the system of the laughter and, too, of the hearer, like a spiritual bath."

"But there are other kinds of laughter. The sneering laugh is perhaps the most familiar. Then there is a quiet laugh, a sibilant, secretive sort of laugh that is quite as certain to mean mischief. Another laugh, disconcerting in nature, is the high pitched, nervous cackling that comes either from embarrassment or is a mere vocal habit. The worst laugh of all, however, to my mind, is that merciless sound provoked by the distress or embarrassment of others, and it raps naturally most of all the object calling it forth. A person laughed at and hurt never forgets the experience."—New York Press.

INSTANT RELIEF OF ITCHING HUMOR

Limbs Below the Knees Were Raw—Feet Too Swollen to Get Shoes On—Sleep Completely Broken by Intense Itching and Burning—Well in Two Days and Says That

CUTICURA IS AMONG HIS HOUSEHOLD GODS

"God bless the man who first compounded Cuticura. Some two months ago I had a humor break out on my limbs below my knees. They came to look like raw beefsteak, all red, and no one knows how they itched and burned. They were so swollen that I had to split my drawers open to get them on and could not get my shoes on for a week or more. I used five or six different remedies and got no help, only when applying them the burning was worse and the itching less. One morning I remembered that I had a bit of Cuticura and tried it. From the moment it touched me the itching was gone and I have not felt a bit of it since. The swelling went down and in two days I had my shoes on and was about as usual. I only wish I had used the Cuticura Remedies in the first of my troubles. They would have saved me a great deal of trouble and suffering. During that time I did not sleep an hour at a time, but was up applying such remedies as I had. Henceforth Cuticura Remedies will be among my household gods, rest assured. George R. Farley, 50 South State St., Concord, N. H., May 14, 1907."

Wednesday, June 10 If Women Would Stand Correctly

said Miss Harpole, the expert corsetiere who is with us this week, commencing Wednesday, June 10, representing the manufacturers, they would have no more need of a corset than would a West Point cadet, but a woman won't, and when a woman won't, well—it's L'Irristible or a Gossard corset for her. They are the only corsets in the world which compel the correct standing position.

When a woman stands correctly, every part of her anatomy takes its rightful place. The flesh relieved of duress is naturally distributed in graceful proportion. No matter what the figure, it assumes its excellence of symmetry. Nature, not the corset, does this when given a chance.

L'Irristible
and afford nature this chance. Positively they are the only corsets in the world successfully designed and manufactured to achieve this great accomplishment.

"They lace in front"
The Gossard corset represents the finest workmanship, the highest art, the deepest science. They are honorable goods.

"They lace in front"
The Gossard corsets have strong hose supporters. They stand the tension. They are boned with a new process boning guaranteed to be the best.

"They Lace In Front"

If they did not lace in front they would fail in this great essential, but lacing in front is not the only reason for their pre-eminence. A bad front laced corset can be made—utterly bad. Bad ones are made and sold to women who believe, because they are buying a front laced corset, they are getting L'Irristible or Gossard.

Other essentials, as important as the front lacing feature, are embodied in L'Irristible and the Gossard. They are the first corsets designed which provide for ample breathing, and are therefore cherished by singers and actresses and sensible women everywhere. They leave the stomach free and form a support for the abdomen which is of the greatest value to the wearer.

A handsomely finished, dainty, new style pocket mirror, precisely intended for purse or portmanteau, will be presented to every purchaser of L'Irristible or a Gossard corset, Wednesday, June 10, and every day during this week.

FARWELL OPERA HOUSE.

That the pictures shown at the Farwell opera house the past week proved to please the many theatregoers of this city could be seen by the large audiences which attended each performance, and if last night's business keeps up the present week will be one of the largest of the summer season. The pictures now being shown are certainly the finest we have had the pleasure of looking at for a long time and are made up of five excellent subjects as follows: "A Bloodless Duel," "Boxing Englishmen," "Little Match Seller," "The Magician's Love Test" and "Lion Hunting," the last two named subjects being true dramatic subjects and will be shown today and tonight for the last time. There will be no pictures shown this week on Wednesday and Thursday, these two days being given over to the graduation exercises which will take place on Thursday, but on Friday and Saturday theatregoers will have the pleasure of seeing one of the strongest picture performances ever given at the Farwell. Remember all new pictures Friday and Saturday; two big shows in one; all for the same price.

SOUTH CUSHING

The community was saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Sarah Davis, widow of O. P. Davis, which occurred June 2, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gilchrist at Pepperell, Mass. Mrs. Davis was a loving wife and mother, and deeply devoted to her family. She leaves five daughters to whom deep sympathy is extended in their sorrow.

Mrs. L. P. Stone is at home from Chelsea, Mass., for the summer.

Mrs. Dewey Maloney has received news of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Davis, in Pepperell, Mass.

R. B. Fillmore is canvassing this week at North Haven.

Mrs. Leslie Young has been the guest of Mrs. J. A. Woodcock and family the past week at Broad Cove.

Austin Orne of Friendship visited relatives in town one day recently.

Rev. Mr. Jackson of Monmouth is expected to preach at Pleasant Point school house Sunday, June 14.

Camden High won a surprisingly easy victory over South Portland High at Camden Friday afternoon. The visitors were outbatted, and outpointed in every branch of the game. After Camden had piled up four runs in the 4th inning there was never much doubt as to where the game would land.

Fish, the young marvel from the hills of Hope, had the South Portland lads completely at his mercy, and his record of 16 strikeouts will probably lug off the belt in Knox county this season. Only four hits were made off his delivery, no two occurring in the same inning. South Portland's two scores were made in the 5th, when Fish had a temporary streak of wildness, and when Nash saw fit to make one of his very few errors of the season. Griffin's double, occurring at this juncture, gave the visitors some semblance of a show.

Camden's batting streak began in the 3d inning when Frohock hit a liner that fairly bloomed with whiskers. It shot past the second baseman like an automobile around a dark corner, tearing its way through the grass and daisies of the outfield to the remotest corner of the suburbs. Frohock made the circuit of bases in record time, but alas for his ambition. He failed to touch second base and Umpire Marshall was left no other alternative than to declare him out. Hart followed with a single, but was thrown at third base in a rather needless sacrifice.

The 4th inning was a re-letter occasion for Camden, but it didn't start that way, for Nash was out on an easy grounder to second and Arey struck out. Coombs revived faint hopes by driving a base on balls. Dunlap's error gave Payson lease of life. With two men on bases Blood did a very commendable feat by knocking a three-bagger. Fish followed with a double, and came home. Hamilton's abominable misjudgment of Frohock's easy fly, Hart ended the circus by flying out to O'Neill. A base on balls by Fish and an error by Ross gave Camden the remainder of her runs in the 6th inning. Gould and Tilton made star catches. The score:

IN SPORTING CIRCLES

Rockland High Had An Off Day With South Portland—Camden Was More Fortunate.

Smarting from its defeat in Camden Friday, South Portland High came here next day, and with its team re-arranged in regular order, and its best battery on deck, did things which make us shudder, even after the smoke of battle has cleared away. Out of respect to the friends and relatives of the downfallen Rockland Braves we shall limit their obituary to a very brief notice, and present only an expurgated version.

In the first three innings South Portland made 10 scores on the strength of seven hits, being aided in that wonderful feat by six of the most glaring errors that a Rockland high school team has made since 1906. The home team made short work of South Portland in the next two innings, but the trouble broke loose again in the 6th, when the visitors made three scores on a solitary hit—a bunch of yellow-hued errors. Cates and Barter were the only men on the team who accepted all the chances. The bulk of the errors were made by Ross, who tried to cover several positions with the usual result. The recent infield change, whereby he left third and brought an untired man from the outfield has not proven an advantageous in our opinion. The four chances which Ross did accept were of the gilt-edged kind, which he is so thoroughly capable of making.

The South Portland boys are a fine looking lot of ball-throwers, arrayed in distinctive uniforms, and acting as though they were born to the positions they were filling. Dyer, the tall twirler, was hardly the brilliant pitcher that the crowd had looked for, but he displayed great headwork, and kept Rockland's hits well scattered.

Rockland's four scores were all made in the 6th inning on hits by Blackington and Baker, two base on balls, an error and a wild pitch. The crowd gunned up a little enthusiasm over this streak of luck, but it was short-lived. It is hoped that the game purged Rockland's system of its error-making propensities and that it will make a much better showing against Bucksport Seminary next Saturday. The score:

Bowdoin clinched the championship of the Maine intercollegiate baseball series Friday by winning her fifth consecutive victory, defeating Bates 19 to 3 in a game in which Bates did not at any time show championship form.

The two ball games of chief interest this week are: Thomaston High vs. Camden High at Camden, Wednesday; Rockland High vs. Bucksport Seminary on the Broadway ground, Saturday. The Camden game will be of interest because the teams are so well matched and because Camden will be thirsting for satisfaction over the defeat which she sustained in Thomaston last Wednesday. The game with Bucksport Seminary Saturday, brings to this city a very strong team

FROM NEW YORK

Tunnel for Ocean Lines—Women Organizing to Fight Against Receiving Suffrage—Slowest Election Returns On Record.

New York, June 8.—While New York already has, either built or projected, about all the ordinary varieties of tunnels, a decidedly novel project in this line has just been planned and is being pushed vigorously. This is a scheme for a ship tunnel to be carried under the Palisades of the Hudson to connect the river with the city of Passaic on the river of the same name in New Jersey. Passaic, although twelve miles from Manhattan at present, would thus become a seaport and the plans for the proposed tunnel call for an underground waterway that would accommodate all but the largest ocean steamships. The proposal is put forward primarily to afford better shipping facilities for manufacturing plants which are being driven out of the present city limits by the growing cost of real estate and fact that sites with direct water or rail connection are no longer to be had here. It is a striking indication of the growth of New York's commerce that although the harbor frontage is more than four hundred miles in extent the pinch of congestion in dock facilities is beginning to be seriously felt. Vast plans for the enlargement of the available water area, such as the deepening of Jamaica Bay and the construction of the New Jersey ship tunnel must be carried out, say the experts, or else New York must lose her present commercial and manufacturing supremacy. The possibility of adding to the other experiences of an ocean voyage a trip in a brilliantly lighted submarine tunnel at the New York end of the journey is one that may be realized within the next few years.

While the fight over race-track gambling in this state has attracted attention all over the country another anti-gambling measure introduced by Governor Hughes and regarded by many persons as of even greater importance, although the struggle for its enactment has been less spectacular, has just been placed on the statute books. This is the law against bucket-shops which the Governor signed a few days ago and which will make it impossible for this swindle, operating under the guise of legitimate trade, to continue in this state. All over the country in fact a relentless fight is being waged against the bucket-shop. Vigorous action by police authorities is depriving them of one of the privileges of the mail as fast as evidence of the nature of their business can be obtained and the Chicago Board of Trade has been carrying on a vigorous campaign against them in the middle west which was perhaps their most profitable field.

The legitimate exchanges have an added reason for fighting the bucketshops for the latter have made it a habit to steal the quotations of the former by wire-tapping or other illegal means. Much of the prejudice against all dealing in stocks and grain has come from the confusion on the part of the public between the operation of the legitimate exchange and that of the bucketshop. The method of the latter is simplicity itself. It charges a commission, usually double that of the legitimate broker, and except in rare cases executes none of its customers' orders. It is a gambling enterprise out and out with the heavy commission always working for the bucketshop. In the palm days of a few years ago men became millionaires in a few months by operating these sure-things games and investigation shows that most of the defaulters and bankrupts whose downfall has been attributed to "speculation" were victims of these swindlers. It is estimated here that the widespread bucketshop throughout the country will mean the saving to the public of millions of dollars besides removing one of the greatest sources of prejudice against legitimate operations of exchanges.

The suffragettes, some of them imported from England, who have been providing more or less entertainment for New Yorkers recently in their meetings, outdoor rallies and parades, all part of the rebellion against man's oppression of woman, are no longer to go unchallenged. A great many American women apparently have no sympathy with the demand for votes and the outcry against their present state. At any rate an organization has been formed here which includes a large number of prominent women and which is planning a vigorous opposition to the suffrage movement. The leaders of the latter declare that the new campaign is being secretly aided and encouraged by the men and point out that most of those engaged in it are handicapped by the possession of husbands. The anti-suffragists insist that they represent the real sentiments of the great majority of women who do not want the ballot and intend to let the fact be known. They are planning

A record of a sort in reporting election returns was made last week when William R. Hearst, on board an ocean liner, received by wireless reports of the count of votes in his long drawn out fight to prove that he was elected Mayor of New York in 1905. Two years and a half in reporting voting results puts the Metropolis a long way behind the most backward of back country districts in this respect. At the rate at which the recount is progressing it is estimated that something like two years will be required for its completion in case all the ballot boxes are opened. This will carry it well beyond the expiration of the present mayoralty term so that Mr. Hearst is likely to receive only an empty honor even if he establishes his claim.

ELSA F. HALL

The funeral of Miss Elsa Frances Hall, who died Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. W. Burdin, in Belfast, took place Tuesday afternoon. Rev. D. H. MacQuarrie officiated. The service was attended by many friends and the floral offerings were very pretty. Deceased was born in Rockland, daughter of John and Syrena Hall, and was 61 years old last November. She was a member of the Berkley Street Baptist church in Boston, but for the past 12 years had resided with her sister in Belfast. Beside Mrs. Burdin, she leaves a sister, Mrs. Clara Crosby, of Somerville, Mass., and a brother, Edward Hall of Tenant's Harbor. The remains were brought to Rockland, where interment was made in the family lot.

TRUSTEES APPOINTED.

They are H. C. Baxter, Brunswick, Cyrus N. Blanchard, Wilton, Albert P. Pierce, Frankfort, W. G. Means, Machias, and Mrs. Margaret A. Barker, Bangor. All the congressional districts of the state are represented.

EASY TO CURE CATARRH.

Just Breathe in Hymel, the Dry Air That Kills Germs.

You can do exactly what G. J. Sterers did by using Hymel. Read this: "After having suffered from chronic catarrh for years, for which I tried various remedies without success, I became almost discouraged. After reading about Hymel, I decided to make one more effort to rid myself of the dread disease, and to my great delight I found the use of two bottles of the inhalant sufficient to produce a complete cure. I now take pleasure in recommending this remedy to all sufferers from catarrh."—G. J. Sterers, Crown City, Ohio.

We don't simply say Hymel will cure catarrh, but we say that C. H. Pendleton, druggist and optician, and W. H. Kittredge, druggist, guarantees it to cure catarrh, or money back. He does more—he guarantees it to cure asthma, bronchitis, hay fever, coughs and colds. A complete Hymel outfit, including inhaler, costs only $1.00, and extra bottles, if you afterwards need one, will cost but 50 cents. Hymel is a pleasant dry air treatment. You just breathe it in, and as it passes over the inflamed membrane, it kills the germs of catarrh, and allays all inflammation.

A man who is in perfect health, so he can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr. L. C. Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure." C. H. Pendleton, druggist and optician, and F. H. Call, druggist.

HUMAN LOVE.

The One Joyous Impulse That Rules the Whole Wide World.

There lives somewhere in the depths of every human heart the divine spark that we call love. It is the voice of the universe slumbering in its narrow cell to be awakened by a whisper or a cry out in dear desire and hear the echoing answer from another soul. Without it life would be a pale, relentless episode. Without its quickening force no temples would be reared by human hands, yet hovels wherein it dwells become more glorious than palaces. Ambition, fame and fortune are its slaves. It chains the mind in sweet imprisonment, makes credulity a guardian queen and lends suspicion to repose.

No censorship of right or wrong can light the way of love. It walks in pathways all its own. It laughs at reason and dispels despair. It is the living word of children, the puzzle of philosophers, the talisman of rulers. It is the first and last of life—murmured at the cradle, cherished at the grave. It is the rainbow after tears, the cure for every sorrow, the one joyous impulse that rules the whole wide world.

—Wade Mountfort in Era Magazine.

The Instinct of Design.

When a Japanese cannot mold the shape of an object, when he cannot represent it by a design, when, in fact, he has no control over its creation at all, but it is placed in his hands as it is, finished, says the author of "Take-mono," he will still contrive to add beauty to it merely by arrangement.

"I first noticed this on board the steamer going out," says Mr. Edwards, "where the Japanese boy arranged the extra blanket on the berth in a new design each day. He folded it into loops, leaves and chrysanthemums, into half opened fans and half shut buds. He had one wonderful arrangement which, being patriotic, was more often repeated than the rest. The blankets of the steamship company had at top and bottom two wavy red lines on a white ground. By some wonderful twist of his fingers the boy would fold that blanket into the rising sun, with the four red lines coming out of it like blood red rays. He did it so perfectly that I recognized the flag of Japan the moment I saw it."—Youth's Companion.

STABLE OF FRANZ M. SIMMONS

Subject to Call.

The French Coach Breed, instead of being the product of a few ideas, has been developed under the exclusive guidance of the Director General of the National Stud of France. As these officials are educated in the same school from generation to generation, and are taught to value the same form, seek for the same qualities, and pursue the same system, we can readily understand how it has been possible for them to attain such high perfection and great uniformity in the breed. All breeders are confined exclusively to the use of animals inspected and licensed by this department. So fixed is the type of French Coaches that they have proved themselves the most persistent and impressive breed of horses that has ever been introduced into this country. They transmit their valuable qualities to their progeny with a surety and definiteness that cannot be excelled.

Single Service Fee $12.50. To Insure $25.00.

Come and see this Stallion before you breed your Mares, and judge for yourself. Mares will be bred at owner's risk. Company will not be responsible for accidents.
